

Course: Turkey and the European Union

Lecturers: Professor Richard T. Griffiths and Professor Erik-Jan Zürcher

Aim:

This course is offered jointly to students of the MA in European Union Studies and of the MA in Turkish Studies. It aims to introduce students to the political, economic and cultural dimensions of Turkey's integration with European Union. In addition to all the practical problems related to Turkey's size and relative poverty, Turkish integration and accession goes straight to the heart of debates over European identity. Studying the Turkish case offers us a powerful vehicle for examining the key questions surrounding EU enlargement and integration. Moreover, Turkish integration can be viewed as an instructive case for other states desiring integration with the EU, in particular states in the Caucasus and Central Asia. Given the differences in expertise and in language competencies, this course should offer students the intellectual challenge of viewing Europe from both the insider and the outsider perspective and lead to an intense and interesting dialogue.

Students are expected to locate their own materials for their essays and presentations. The selection below is intended to be indicative of the type of materials easily available to you, and may give you ideas of the scope of the subject and possibly also for essay topics.
